

Australian National University

Asia Pacific Week 2017 25th-30th June

Asia Pacific Week is an interdisciplinary conference held annually in Canberra, Australia, aimed at high-achieving students from around the world who have an academic interest in Asia and the Pacific.

The 2017 conference will explore the theme of 'A Changing Landscape': examining the changes occurring in the Asia-Pacific region, and the steps that must be taken to ensure its stability and growth.

Asia Pacific Week is highly regarded for its capacity to draw in diverse and innovative perspectives to examine the changes occurring in the Asia-Pacific region.

Panels, debates, simulations and other academic events, along with a vibrant social schedule including a gala dinner at one of the city's iconic venues, give student delegates countless opportunities to network and engage with like-minded peers, diplomatic officials, policy makers, and ANU's leading academics.

This unrivalled experience is set against the backdrop of Australia's capital, at the nation's premier university in Asia-Pacific studies.

If you see your future within the Changing Landscape of the Asia-Pacific, we highly encourage you to apply today.

Application deadline

7th April 2017
17:00 AEST (UTC +10)

You can also scan our QR code with your smartphone or tablet for a convenient link to our form.

Apply today
bit.do/apwapply